GRAND TIME

HALLOWE'EN NIGHT.

Forty-Six Ghosts Entertained By The Epworth League Social Committee.

If you want to have a good time, join the Epworth League now while Miss Grace Plank is Third Vice President and has Miss Lula Severs, Miss Margaret Burn, Harold Murray and Virgil Babbage on her social committee. They can make folks enjoy themselves even when ghosts are around, at least they did at the Ghost Walk in the reception room of the Methodist church Halloween night.

Just before 8 o'clock in every part of town ghosts began to appear and their white robes made their way to the church where they were numbered and fell in line for the grand march in the main room which was artistically decorated. Chrysanthemums were among the floral decorations, and jack-o-lanterns and old Miss Pumpkin lights were used to break the darkness in ghostland. The ghosts immediately got very sociable and tried to renew acquaintances, but when the guessing contest was closed few recognitions were recorded.

Some of the ghosts were tall and interesting, others angelic with graceful wings and many were as ugly as the old witch herself. Their presence made the occasion a very scary one, but Miss Ray Heyser, a courageous member of the B. Y. P. U., sang "Who's Afraid?" and got the guests in brave spirits. An invitation was extended them to have their fortunes told by the fortune teller as was expected as the "Third Degree" at the White City in Louisville, and the only consolation to those who had started as "It's a long road that has no turn." When first entering the concession one went through cold and hot regions and were then sent over a freightful path that made you feel very queer. Finally this sensation subsided and the fortune teller, who was heard and not seen, spoke many words of relief and encouragement. One girl was told "You have a dangerous rival, but you will get him"; another, "You have ten sweet-hearts a long time and will married this year."

There were several other attractions to the amusement of the guests and about 30 delicious home-made candy, fruit and popcorn were served in abundance. The popcorn was most attractively tied in yellow tissue paper in the shape of pumpkins with a little face pasted on each bundle. The crowd commenced making the social committee at 11 o'clock for the pleasant evening and is still chattering them.

PLEADED TO DIE.

Miss Vina Bandy's Wish Was Granted And Death Came Thursday Night.

Miss Vina Bandy, the young woman who shot herself in the abdomen Wednesday morning died Thursday night. She was nineteen years of age and was the daughter of Mrs. Eliza Bandy.

The shooting occurred at Williams Hotel in West Point about 7 o'clock and it was Miss Bandy's intention to commit suicide. That afternoon she was taken to her home at Stephensport where every medical attention was given her, but she pleaded with the physicians to be allowed to die. She left a note saying a young man was the cause of her trouble that made her want to end her existence.

The funeral was held Sunday morning and the interment took place in the grave yard at Union Star. The services were conducted by the Rev. F. Roberts in the presence of a heart-crushed mother and two hundred sorrowing friends.

Quick Climatic changes try strong constitutions and cause, among other evils, nasal catarrh, a troublesome and offensive disease. Sneezing and snuffing, coughing and difficult breathing, and the drip, drip of the foul discharge into the throat—all are ended by Ely's Cream Balm. This honest remedy contains no cocaine, mercury, nor other harmful ingredient. The worse cases yield to treatment in a short time. All druggists, 50c., or mailed by Ely Bros., 36 Warren Street, New York.

Cloverport Teachers Entertained.

The guests were: Misses Margaret Wroe and Edith Burn, teachers of the primary department, Miss Gora McCoy, who has charge of the intermediate department, Miss Jennie Patterson, first assistant, and Prof. Edmond Wroe.

Interested In Cloverport.

Mrs. Eliza B. Webb, of Louisville, was an interesting passenger on the east bound train Friday morning. She was on her way home from Havesville after a short visit to relatives there. Mrs. Webb had baskets filled with butter and eggs and other things good to eat that are scarce in the city. Although Mrs. Webb has traveled a great deal and seen many places, Cloverport still interests to her, and she got near a window that she might see the town as she passed through.

Mrs. Summers Dead.

Mrs. Rebecca Summers, widow of Frank Summers, died October 27, at her home at Garrett, Meade county.—Elizabethtown News.

CARRIE NATION

AT KINGSWOOD.

"The Famous Kansas Cyclone in Skirts" Lectures to a Good Crowd Thursday.

People from Hardinsburg, Glendale and from several other places in Breckenridge county, went to Kingswood Thursday to hear Mrs. Carrie Nation speak. She delivered two lectures, one in the afternoon and the other at night. Mrs. Nation told the audiences the evils of drink, that are known only too well, then advanced her ideas as to how to cut out the evil and build up the good which she partially does with a hatchet. During her stay at Kingswood she was entertained by Rev. and Mrs. Hughes, principals of Kingswood College.

Mrs. Nation gave a wait-a-minute talk here at the depot Thursday morning while the east bound train on which she was a passenger was at the station, and her impromptu speech on whisky and tobacco was a treat to those who heard her.

HER FIRST HATCHET WORK.

The first time Mrs. Nation ever used her hatchet in a saloon was the night her son, who was under age, came home drunk. She became so indignant at the saloon keeper, who let her son have the whisky unlawfully, that she and another woman took their hatchets that night and broke up the saloon. That was what started her, and it is enough to start any mother. Though the fat little woman, with black eyes and hair that is thickly tinted with grey, has been put in jail thirty times and paid $5,000 in fines, she has been victorious and will be until the end.

The daily newspapers, magazines and other good reading matter are kept on this table and all visitors, who will come in and quietly enjoy it without disturbing the office force are cordially welcome. "Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. Has been used with success in our family for eight years."—Mrs. L. Whiteacre, Buffalo, N. Y.

Was Past Three-Score Years.

She was seventy-one years of age, and was the mother of Mr. Sam Conrad, of this place, who with his wife and son, Mr. Shelby Conrad, attended the funeral, which was held Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

ANNUAL STATE DEVELOPMENT CONVENTION.

The Sixth Annual State Development Convention which will be held in Louisville on the 19, 20 and 21 of this month will probably surpass an interest of any event of the sort ever held in Kentucky. Strenuous efforts are being put forth by the local Committee of Arrangements in Louisville and the members of the Executive Committee of the Kentucky State Development Association, throughout the state.

Invitations are daily being sent to the well-known speakers on all topics of interest throughout the country and the latest acceptance received is from the Hon. James B. McCreary. Senator McCreary, as he is well known, has devoted considerable time and attention in the United States Senate to the subject of the Panama canal and he has therefore, consented to address the convention on the subject of the Panama Canal and its effect on the Trade and Industries of the Southern States. The fact that Senator McCreary's services have been obtained for the convention is a matter of much gratification to President E. J. McDermott and his assistants. He is greatly pressed for time but agreed to speak because of the importance of this gathering of representative Kentuckians.

Much work is being done by the Committees on invitation and delegates. Throughout the state, hundreds of prominent men have been urged to take a part in the work of securing a proper representation on the floor of the convention from each county and a gratifying interest has been shown.

The relation of the press to the progress of Kentucky will receive considerable attention on the programme of the convention and Mr. Lew B. Brown, President of the Kentucky Press Association, is to make a speech on this subject. Mr. Brown's knowledge of his topic is intimate and his discussion on the subject should do much to harmonize the efforts of the press and other various factors in Kentucky's progress.

It is the earnest wish of the convention workers to have on hand a big gathering of Kentucky's men to hear these profitable discussions.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all others put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

She Did Not Fear Death.

An old lady on her seventy-third birthday once said, "I do not mind getting old, and I do not fear death, but I live in a constant dread of paralysis." "For some time I have been wanting to tell you of the great good your wonderful Sloan's Liniment is doing here," writes Mrs. James F. Abernethy, of Rutland College, N. C. "In fact, all your remedies are doing noble work, but your Liniment beats all. In my eight years' experience with medicine I find none to go ahead of it, having tried it in very many cases. I know of one young man, a brick mason, who suffered from a partial, yes, almost a complete, paralysis of one arm. I got him to use your Liniment, and now he can do as much work as ever, and he sings your praise every day. I get all to use it possibly can and know there is great virtue in it. I have helped the sale of your remedies about here greatly, and expect to cause many more to buy them, as I know they can't be beat."

Success.

To work steadily with an upward aim.

To conquer wisely trials met;

With little use for anger or for blame.

The highest good from life to get;

To gather wealth, not for its sake alone,

But for the good it helps to do;

To strike each morn a richer mental tone,

And onward press with courage new;

To hold in other hearts a sacred place,

To gladly helping hand extend,

To grow in spirit brave, spirit grace,

As through this busy world we went;

To win the power to lead, to cheer, to bless.

Our brother man—this constitutes success.

A Change of Profession.

By HARVEY J. O'HIGGINS.

Copyright by H. S. McClure Co.

GORMAN and Hanrahan, the two probationers newly assigned to Engine Company No. —, were the first of their crew to reach the roof of the sixteen story mansard building. They had the nozzle of a line of hose that was held from the standpipe at the top floor to wet down the north wall of the skyscraper, and they came out into the night, dragging their length of the line, to face a gale of wind that took the breath from between their teeth. They struggled against it, through the darkness, toward the light of fire over the roof, and they looked down there through the smoke at the flames in the roof of an adjoining building twelve stories below them.

Captain Ball had followed them. "Turn on your water!" he belittled the storm of the men belching them, and in a moment a feeble stream swelled the line of hose and gushed from the "pipe." He swore at it. "It can't spit past its chin," he said.

It straightened slowly as they watched it. "Keep wetting her down!" he shouted in Gorman's ear. "Get up another line!" he cried to the rest of the crew.

The rushing of the wind drowned their answer, but they hurriedly tried to obey him. He remained with Gorman and Hanrahan, watching the fire spread and brighten in the roof of the clothing house. Gorman still grinning at his "can't spit past its chin."

They were 200 feet above the street level, and the storm sucked itself across the hooded roofs below them, drew up a drift of heat and smoke to them as if they were looking down a chimney. They could guess what the heat must be in the roof, for across the road the woodwork of the windows of a five story building had caught fire without touching the flame, and a pyrozy crew were drugging it with a stream which they shot straight from the sidewalk. Officers the size of mountains up and down in the ruddy glow, waving their little arms. The fire flowed over the roof as if it were a burning oil, and the smoke came up to them thicker and the heat more stifling with every breath.

Their weak stream dribbled down the wall to dry out on the hot bricks before it touched the point of danger, and Gorman leaned over the parapet to see that the trial was beginning to peel off in great sheets of black. Hanrahan and he tried hopelessly to reach these by swinging the pipe from side to side. They might as well have tried to irrigate the roof with their eyes were dry and beginning to smart.

The rest of the crew came up again, dragging a second line. Captain Ball turned to the lieutenant. "No use bringing more lines up here!" he shouted. "Windows 'll be breaking. There ain't a shutter on the whole damned building! Fireproof? She's matchwood! Back down to the twelfth floor! Get lines stretched to the air shaft there!"

The men went back with their hose. "Do the best you can up here," he advised Gorman. "Chief's orders to wet down. Look out for the air shaft."

Gorman caught the first of these instructions, but the wind carried away that last warning of danger, and the captain turned to the roof. He was then unconscious of the catastrophe which was preparing for them.

The air shaft, in fact, was acting as a sheltered fire for Hanrahan. It cut a deep groove into the wall of the mansard building at Gorman's left, and the wind, rushing into it, rose straight ahead, blowing up sparks like the draft of a blast furnace. Gorman, watching only the wall and the windows below him, pitted the crews at work in the street. He was wishing for a quid of chewing tobacco, and he remembered with exasperation that Hanrahan would have none. That was one of Hanrahan's social limitations—he did not chew. He had been nicknamed "Delicate Pete" by his fellow probationers at the city hall, and Bull Gorman, who was known as Bull Gorman, being the big man of his class, had despised him from the day that the instructor, having pitted them against each other in a race with scaling ladders, had then publicly compared Gorman to a baby hippopotamus in point of staidness because Hanrahan had run away from him.

These two were being "broken" together with a lot of the other men of the company, but there was no friendship between them. They rarely spoke to each other, for Gorman had found Hanrahan's conversation all "hot air and free silver" and had quarreled with him about this wearisome enthusiasm for politics. They continued stolidly at their work now in the silence of mutual indifference. The growing strength of the stream threatened to tear the nozzle from their hands, and they raised the hose to their shoulders to bend it in a swan's neck arch that sent the water hissing down the bricks. They were busied so when a severe bluish green flame flash in the roof of the fire in the roof below, and a belch of smoke rolled up to them on the burst and explosion of an explosion. Before it reached them they heard an other roar beneath it. The cloud of smoke was split with flame, and they leaped back from the parapet, as if from the crater of a volcano and threw themselves on their faces as the burning gases, freed by the collapse of the roof, flaring 200 feet into the air, struck the side of the mansard building, to break every window glass in its upper ten stories and ignite every window curtain, window sash, and "trim" in its north wall, rolled over them in a heat that nipped their ears like a frostbite and was gone.

Gorman plunged down the pipe that was thrashing about the pipe that and staggered back to the parapet with it. The heat of the heat was insupportable, and he could see nothing for the smoke that blinded him with tears. He did not know that the gale was cutting its way through the air into the hidden air shaft and that every window on that shaft was already splitting flames. He could just see that the woodwork of the windows below him was afire, and he called Hanrahan to train the pipe on it with him. They doused it black at once and scattered and left and having been disappointed in the results obtained, we have decided that the pooling and holding of redried tobacco is not to the best interest of the farmer. On this account we have made the following proposition of our own accord, to the American Tobacco company.

"The Green River Equity Warehouse company agrees to deliver to The American Tobacco company all of the 1907 crop, which it now controls, to which it may control, to the Owensboro factory of the American Tobacco company on such other factory in Owensboro as the said American Tobacco company may designate at the following prices."

It is understood that the prices are well up to the market, being from $9, $8 and $3 down. All of the trash is to be sold at 3 cents. (Owensboro Messenger Nov. 5.)

WARM AND DRY TO STAY WELL.

Advice of Noted Authority. Also Gives a Simple Home Prescription.

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble follow, and the traveler and those who do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home-made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator and almost certain remedy for all forms of Rheumatism which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

Kidney Disease, First Stage Promptly Relieved By Pe-ru-na.

THE first stage of Bright's Disease of the kidneys is known as the catarrhal stage.

Catarrh of the mucous membrane of the kidneys is the first stage of a drama that often ends as a tragedy.

To stop the catarrh is to head off the disease.

If Bright's Disease can be relieved during the catarrhal stage all will be well.

Pe-ru-na has achieved a reputation for mitigating catarrh of the internal organs.

This explains why Pe-ru-na has been used with so much success in kidney diseases.
